

November 2009 Month In Review

Health Care Battle Reaching Final Stage

Fellow Hoosiers,

I hope you had a blessed Thanksgiving. As we've entered December, the health care battle in this country rages on, and Big Government threatens our economy more than ever before.

The legislative baton was handed to the U.S. Senate last month, and they began consideration of the government-run health care plan just yesterday. I'll be spending December doing all that I can to call on Senators to vote against any government-run health care plan and all the higher taxes, debt, and rationing of care that is sure to come with it.

Below, you'll find a review of my Congressional activities in the month of November. I hope you enjoy the update.

Sincerely,

Dan

November Month in Review:

Featured Video: On November 6th, Rep. Burton recorded an address to Hoosiers about why he would vote against the Democrats' government-run health care plan.

Nov. 2nd - Rep. Burton hosted a health benefits seminar for Hoosier Veterans in Marion, IN.

Nov. 3rd - Rep. Burton gives the facts about Nancy Pelosi's government-run health care plan to the U.S. House.

Nov. 6th - The Kokomo Perspective posted Rep. Burton's statement on the unemployment rate reaching 10.2%.